

Page 111-113: Kohlhaas is now incarcerated in Berlin and sentenced to death by the sword, though public opinion believes that the Elector of Brandenburg will simply commute the sentence. Meanwhile, the treasurer of the Duke of Saxony has also arrived in Berlin and begins a plan to regain the prophecy. What is it?

111	der kaiserliche Landfrieden	the imperial peace die Schranken des Gesetzes	the bar (of a court) etwas einwenden	to protest, hold against
	jemanden belangen	to hold someone accountable
112	die Milde	charity
	das Wohlwollen	good will
	die Hoftracht	courtly apparel die hinlängliche Vorbereitung	sufficient preparation
	das Trödelweib	female street peddler
113	etwas unterschieben	to foist something on someone
	etwas habhaft werden	to gain possession of something die Verheißung einer beträchtlichen Belohnung	to promise of a great reward
	die Korallenkette	coral necklace

Page 114-117: There now follows a revelation that even the narrator admits is somewhat incredible. What is it?

114	die Freiheit daran zu zweifeln	the freedom to doubt (the rather incredible events about to be told)
	etwas nachahmen	to imitate die Züge ihres Gesichtes	the features of her face jemanden kraulen	to scratch, rub the belly of a dog
115	die Drohung	threat

	abgeschmackt sein	tasteless, without ground gleichwohl	at the same time von etwas Gebrauch machen	to make use of something
	jauchzen	to exult
	die Ferse	heel
116	die Genugtuung	gratification, satisfaction
	etwas eröffnen	to reveal something
117	etwas zerstreuen	to disperse something
	Montag nach Palmarum	the Monday following Palm Sunday

Page 118-119: Kohlhaas's sentence isn't commuted, and preparations are made for his execution. Shortly before his death, Kohlhaas receives a surprising message made even more surprising by the person who delivers it.

118	der Oheim	uncle
	der Vormund	legal guardian
	der Zwinger	prison cell
	der Dechant	deacon
119	verstört im Gesicht	with a confused face
	etwas verscharren	to bury in a shallow grave an allen Gliedern zittern	to shake in all his limbs

Page 120-122: How does the story end?

121	solchergestalt	in this way
	der Block	the chopping block
122	etwas verschlingen	to consume, wolf down
	rüstig	robust, healthy