

Comparative Politics Workshop

Fall Semester – 2018

September 7, 2018

Emma Rosenberg

“Religious Appeals and Right-wing Populist Parties in Central Europe”

September 21, 2018

Jeff Harden & Kevin Angell

“Missionaries, Mechanisms, and Democracy”

October 5, 2018

Benjamin Garcia-Holgado

“Actors’ Preferences in the Breakdown of Political Regimes: An Argentinean Case Study”

October 26, 2018

Ana Petrova

“Political Parties' Organizations in Latin America”

November 9, 2018

Ilana Rothkopf

“International Organizations and Comparative Constitutional Design after Civil War”

November 16, 2018

Tahir Kilavuz

“Support for Democracy in MENA: Experimental Evidence”

The Comparative Politics Workshop at the University of Notre Dame is a graduate student-led forum geared towards presenting and discussing papers and research projects during the academic semester. Participants have the chance to present their work and receive valuable, constructive feedback from their fellow students, professors, and visiting scholars.

For more information please contact Comparative Politics Field Representative (2018-2019) Paul Friesen: pfriesen@nd.edu.